New York Central Road Number 5013

This 70' heavyweight mail baggage car is painted in the two-tone post-war gray scheme with white 'New York Central' letters. The roof is black and underframe is dark gray and runs on 6-wheel passenger trucks. Major metropolitan areas generated a lot of correspondence and during the early 20th Century few rivaled New York. The railroad had a huge fleet of cars specifically designed to transport mail and postal freight across the country.

These cars were acquired from Conrail and NYC but kept their original NYC road numbers.
