NEW

New Haven Road Number 6724

This 78' heavyweight paired-window coach car is Pullman Green with white lettering and runs on 6-wheel passenger trucks. Built in 1914 as part of series 6700-6738, these cars became one of the prime movers of freight and passengers in the first half of the 20th Century. They continued service until 1968 when they were absorbed into the Penn Central Railway.

NEW

Canadian Pacific Road Number 4502

This 70' heavyweight horse car is maroon with gold lettering and runs on 6-wheel passenger trucks. Built in 1920 as part of series 4502-4515, these cars were originally designed and built during the days when horses were still a major mode of transportation. They provided a safe, efficient way to move livestock around the country. These cars were also fitted with doors at one end of the car to allow for easier loading and unloading making them unique.

Canadian National Road Number 'Bonaventure'

This 3-2 heavyweight business car is painted green with black band and yellow lettering and runs on 6-wheel passenger trucks. As older observation cars were converted to business cars for executive use, they were also given an exterior upgrade with new siding and thermally superior windows. The changes made them look like the newer, light weight passenger cars allowing them to blend in with newer fleets.

REPRINT Southern Pacific®
Road Number 1096

This 36' riveted steel caboose with offset cupola is aluminum with black lettering and runs on Bettendorf Swing Motion trucks. Southern Pacific Railroad was one of the innovators of piggy back trailer service and to identify these trains they painted eight cabooses in the distinctive overall silver scheme. These cars were pulled from the extensive SP fleet and were painted to match their PMT highway trailers at the time. Later they would be used in general service before being repainted.
